

Going with grace

I'd thought our clan would march towards the end.

Not crawl or slide resigned to being breathless,
Bent and barely more than bones,
Choking on chocolate raisins meant for children.

Is this a life? And is it blasphemy to say
I would rather I could die
I would rather he and all those after
Could either march towards the end
Or slip away with grace.